HEARING RECESSED

Phone Company Charges Board Members Must Make Cuts in Order to Hold Jobs.

The Georgia Continental Telephone Company, one of ten small telephone companies whose rates were recently ordered reduced by the Georgia public service commission, Tuesday applied for federal court orders holding the commission members in contempt and to enjoin them from making further rate cuts.

In its petition to Circuit Court Judge Samuel Sibley and District Judge E. Marvin Underwood here, the telephone company charged that members of the commission are dependent on rate reductions to hold their jobs and that the commission violated a recent federal restraining order against a 25 per cent rate reduction, by putting into effect a new schedule of rates.

The petition was signed by Marion Smith, who has been chief advisor to Governor Eugene Talmadge in several other important cases of state litigation and D. F. McClatchey Jr., on behalf of the law firm of Harold Hirsch and Marion Smith and Carson E. Covender, Jr., general counsel for the telephone company. It charged that members of the public service commission "are in a conspiracy with other state officials" and that their "salaries and emoluments are dependent on rate reductions."

Recess to Monday.

At the telephone petition was being filed the commission recessed until next Monday its investigation into railroad freight rates. The recess was taken on the grounds that the railroad companies need more time to prepare answers to a questionnaire submitted by the commission.

In announcing the recess, Chairman Wilhoit said that no delay beyond Monday would be permitted, advising railroad lawyers that the commission

Closed Banks to Pay
65 Pct., Says Jones

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said tonight he expected depositors in banks closed during the past three years to get back an average of 65 per cent of their money.

Jones recalled the average pay-off from closed banks for 25 years previous was 58 per cent.

Of $8,600,000,000 in banks closed during 1931, 1932 and 1933, he said 50 per cent already had been refunded to depositors.

Many remaining assets, he said, were not "frozen" but losses and regardless of recovery, will still be losses.

"Where we find it possible to increase the loans with reasonable safety, we will do so," he said.

The RFC "ordinarily" will not buy assets outright, as authorized by the new law, he said.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—A second son was born today to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tunney.

The former world's heavyweight champion said that the new arrival weighed 8 pounds 11 ounces, and already had one "knockout" to his credit.

He took a punch at the nurse at the first opportunity and almost scored a "knockdown," exclaimed Tunney. "That's a pretty fair start."

Mother and son both were "doing splendidly," Tunney added. The baby was born at 6:44 (eastern standard time).

BIDS FOR $836,000
IN ROAD PROJECTS
TO BE LET JULY 12Tri-States Road in Rabun
County Included in Jobs
Listed by Highway Board.

The state highway board Tuesday issued calls for bids on $836,000 worth of paving, grading and bridge work which will be let for contract on July 12.

A number of important projects are to be included in the letting, among them one calling for the first paving on the Carnesville-Lavonia highway and the grading of the Georgia section of the tri-states road in Rabun county, which will be divided by the United States forestry department and the state highway department.

Governor Talmadge explained Tuesday that the federal restrictions on highway funds voted by congress for the next three years will be met in every way by the state. These funds total $12,000,000 to be expended at the rate of $4,000,000 annually.

One of the restrictions is that states diverting their own highway funds for other purposes in the last two years of the program would forfeit one-third of their allotments. Under Governor Talmadge's program there will be no diversion of highway funds accrued after January 1, 1935.

He already has nearly all of the $2,000,000 he plans to divert to the general treasury to meet part due to federal pensions and school teachers' salaries.

The following projects will be contracted for by July 12 letting:

Projects Included.

Paving 5.237 miles on the Carnesville-Lavonia road in Franklin county.

Paving 3.108 miles on the Homer-Baldwin road in Banks county.

Paving 2.866 miles and constructing one bridge on the Corvinton-Porterdale road in Newton county.

Paving 1.008 miles on the Lyons-Savannah road in Tattnall county.

Paving 3.555 miles on the Dahlonega-Dawsonville road in Dawson county.

Grading 6.742 miles on the Dublin-Swainsboro road in Emanuel and Johnson counties.

Grading 1.894 miles and constructing one bridge on the Albany-Macon road in Wilkes county.

Tri-States Road.

Grading 8.023 miles and constructing one culvert on the tri-states road in Rabun county. The road will begin at the South Carolina state line and end at the North Carolina state line and is a national forestry project.

Paving 11.136 miles on the Kingsland-St. Mary's road in Camden county.

Grading 2.805 miles and paving 493 miles on the Gibson-Wrens road in Glynn county.

Grading 5.931 miles and constructing two bridges on the Alma-Patterson road in Bacon county.

Paving 10.599 miles on the Buena Vista-Cusseta road in Marion county.

Construction of one bridge over Cypress creek on the Fargo-Lake City, Fla., road in Clinch county.

HARRIMAN CASE
UP TO CUMMINGS,
ASSERTS JOHNSONNRA Chief Reiterates Tennessee Firm Must Make Labor Concessions
To Regain Eagle.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—A determined assertion by Hugh S. Johnson, that the shutdown of Harriman Hosiery Mills must make labor concessions to regain a Blue Eagle today put the question of the government's next step—legal prosecution—up to Attorney General Cummings.

"The prosecution part of the case is in the hands of the department of justice," Johnson said. "I don't know what the justice department is going to do. It's a little bit embarrassing."

For himself, answering Harriman charges of "persecution," Johnson said flatly:

"I have no doubt of the violation of the code. I have less doubt now than ever before."

Months ago, the case of the Tennessee hosiery plant was referred to the justice department by the national labor board for alleged violation of the collective bargaining rights guaranteed labor in the hosiery code and the recovery law. A strike was called last October when the firm was alleged to have dismissed employees for union activities.

In June 18 the justice department replied that a complete file of evidence had not been submitted, but that on the basis of a transcript of hearings before the Atlanta regional labor board, it did "not consider the evidence sufficient to warrant legal prosecution."

Cummings Given File on Case.

Johnson said Cummings had been given a complete file in the case, including all records of the national labor board's and NRA's efforts to adjust the controversy. Cummings has not yet indicated a new decision in the case.

The Harriman mills closed yesterday throwing more than 600 employees out of work. J. Ashbury Wright Jr., president of the firm, said he intended to take the case to court and would not go into the Blue Eagle case until the case was decided.

Johnson said the actions of himself and NRA "have convinced us that they intend to wreck this concern and make its operation impossible."

Johnson discussed the case at a press conference. With him were two aids who have sought to negotiate settlements—George L. Berry and A. R. Claborn, president of the Blue Eagle.

The shutdown was attributed by the firm to its removal.

Berry reviewed a 15-point program submitted at a meeting in Knoxville June 9. While accepted by the strikers, he said the Harriman employers rejected two propositions.

One was that the firm should employ 500 strikers be re-employed and that a board of mediation be set up to handle disputes.

"I've indicated to both sides I am still willing to meet," Berry said. "I propose to address them tomorrow. I propose to address them tomorrow. I propose to address them tomorrow."

The recovery law provides a $500 fine for each day's violation of an NRA code. Prosecution is placed in the hands of the justice department. Johnson said today he did not think the government would prosecute each time a Blue Eagle was withdrawn but that he had certified the case to the justice department on the day he withdrew the Harriman Blue Eagle.

ATLANTA FLOODED
BY PHONEY MONEY
CURTIS TO RESIGN
PLACE IN COUNCIL

Counterfeit money, in $5 and $10 bills, is flooding Atlanta and Tuesday the United States secret service issued warning to all merchants to watch out for the spurious cash. More than $500 worth of the "phony" money has been turned over to the government within the past 10 days by Atlanta banks, it was said.

George H. Brodnax, operator in charge of the United States secret service in Atlanta, said he had received information from the federal officers that counterfeiters have so far been undetected.

Since the first of the false bills appeared in a bank deposit 10 days ago, there have been five or six bills discovered by the bankers practically every day. Two $10 notes and one for $5 were turned over to the government.

In every case the money has been passed at some store, most of them chain grocery establishments, and there is no record of the person or persons who cashed them.

Brodnax said the bogus money is not a good reproduction of Uncle Sam's genuine bill. The $500 worth found so far bear the work of the federal reserve banks at Philadelphia, Richmond and New York. From the numbers and the workmanship, Brodnax said he believed the money was manufactured in New York.

The federal agent advanced the theory that persons might have stopped over in Atlanta for a few days, distributing the "phonies." He said also that a gang of the counterfeiters may be located in the city, all merchants were warned.

FEDERAL RELIEF PROMISED
HOSIERY MILLS WORKERS

HARRIMAN, Tenn., June 26.—(AP)—The town of Harriman remained undisturbed today as its principal industry, the Harriman Hosiery Mills, stood closed and entered an apparent deadlock with the strikers over the removal of its Blue Eagle.

In the meantime, the 653 workers who lost their jobs when the mills shut down Monday were assured any federal government relief program Tennessee emergency relief administration.

The mill lost its Blue Eagle last April for alleged violation of the hosiery code. The national labor board charged mill officials with refusing to bargain collectively with striking employees.

J. Ashbury Wright, attorney for the mills, said the plant would remain closed and reiterated his charge to Johnson that "we are convinced that through boycott and other means at your disposal you have set out to wreck this concern."

There was little activity today at the mills which are at the edge of Harriman, a town of 4,000 population. A few workers were finishing up knitted stock on hand. A skeleton staff cleared out unfilled orders.

Uptown, mill employees—the ones who lost their jobs—met and sent a telegram to Administrator Johnson urging that the Blue Eagle be returned to the mills. The telegram said they were satisfied with wages, hours and working conditions and that they would "much prefer to be working than to be on government relief."

Cotton Mills Forge Ahead
In First Year Under NRASloan Cites Increased Employment and Pay
Rolls As Proof of Industry's Good Faith;
Warning Sounded on Further Changes.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—A 40 per cent increase in employment and a 78 per cent jump in pay rolls were cited tonight by the cotton textile industry as outstanding contributions to the administration's recovery campaign during the first year of operation under NRA.

The industry submitted its code of competition on June 27, 1933, and embarked on the administration's drive to spread employment and boost purchasing power by cutting hours and raising wages. It was the first to abolish child labor and to submit a code and thus set the example for nearly 500 industries.

However, in citing accomplishments, George A. Sloan, chairman of the cotton textile code authority, sounded a warning note by asserting that "confidence in the fall and winter gave way to apprehension in the spring."

Sloan cited tremendous increases in the cost of raw materials and growing apprehension on the part of business management over the trend in recent legislation as factors disturbing the industry. In addition, he said, labor has become increasingly militant in demands for higher wages and shorter hours than the code at present provides.

It was a year ago tomorrow the public hearing started on the first code presented in the administration's program for peaceful industrial revolution. The huge commerce department auditorium was filled to capacity to hear Sloan's presentation. Every administrator, opened the session by remarking:

"You are about to be witnesses of what may prove to be one of the most important events in the history of this country since the war."

Since that day, Sloan says, child labor has been abolished, hours of workers, wages have been raised and unfair trade practices outlawed in the industry.

This, Sloan says, has been accomplished despite a heavy increase in raw material—amounting in some instances to 120 per cent.

He adds, however, that recent months have brought about a danger of profitless operation and asserts there has been a growing apprehension over the trend in recent legislation. Labor also has continued its demand for a 30-hour week, higher wages and shorter hours, which he says are widespread in the industry.

The collision was attributed by the two sides to a failure to trade between the two boats.

A dozen were known to have been seriously hurt in addition to the six officially reported and more than 30 were suffering from shock and immersion. The coast line for 10 miles will be searched today for more bodies.

Many women were among the workers, and some of them were among the number feared to be lost. The workers were on their way to their homes in various coastal towns.

Rescuers Prayed.

There was wide praise for the quick work of dockmen who leaped to the rescue of the shipwrecked victims. One police said he went into the boat's cabin and saved the lives of three adults and a small girl.

The police said he went to step into a boat taking volunteer divers to the scene of the wreck when a policeman recognized him as a man wanted.

"I am a good diver," the man said. "Let me go and save some lives."

The policeman gave in, and the fugitive became a hero.

Small harbor craft were the first to bring succor to the drowning. They fished dozens of persons from the water and took them to the marine hospital for first aid. Admiral DeWitt, commander of the naval port, took charge of the rescue work.

Boats equipped with searchlights searched the black waters for hours after the crash, while relative calm and friends huddled in groups on the water front, waiting all night for news.

SIX KNOWN DEAD,
OTHERS MISSING
IN SHIP COLLISIONSteamship Accident Occurs Within Sight of Lorient, French Coast
Port; Scores Rescued.

LORIENT, France, June 27.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—A passenger boat carrying 100 arsenal workers was rammed from the rear tonight by another vessel and sunk with her human cargo. The loss of life was still unchecked early today.

At least a score were feared to have been carried out to sea by a treacherous current flowing past the mouth of Lorient harbor. The official toll stood at six dead and six injured.

Quick work by heroic divers diminished the death toll, which at first was feared to be high. Dock workers and sailors plunged into the waters over the sinking vessel and rescued all the passengers trapped in the ship's cabin.

Early today the boat was raised and towed to port at low tide.

The definite list of dead will not be known until officials of the Lorient arsenal make a check of workers' families for the missing.

Life belts hastily clutched saved a majority of the 100 working men and women who were able to float in water 150 feet deep until fished out by labor boats and small craft which put out from shore.

The accident happened in full view of hundreds of persons who crammed the docks. The vessel which sank, the Prosperite, was rammed by a small passenger vessel, the Marie Ange. The latter was not damaged, but the Prosperite had a huge hole in her stern through which the water poured, sinking her within a few minutes.

The collision was attributed by the police to a failure to trade between the two boats.

A dozen were known to have been seriously hurt in addition to the six officially reported and more than 30 were suffering from shock and immersion. The coast line for 10 miles will be searched today for more bodies.

Snake Kills Alligator
After Losing Own Life

COCOA, Fla., June 26.—(AP)—Death strikes, even in death.

An alligator and a rattlesnake, squirming through the swamp beside a roadway near here, swapped blows in passing, neither winning, both losing.

The alligator snapped at the tail of the snake, as the snake struck back, the huge jaws of the saurian crunched upon his head, severing it. Poison from the snake's fangs seeped into the tender flesh of the alligator's mouth. Death came.

Workers on the roadway described the battle.

UNCLE SAM READY TO RELEASE LOANS
FOR U. S. INDUSTRYFederal Reserve Banks
Prepared To Act; Regulations
To Be Announced Today.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(UP)—Federal reserve banks throughout the country are ready to make direct loans to industry. Governor Eugene H. Black, of the reserve board, said tonight.

Regulations under which these loans will be made, Black said, will be announced tomorrow.

Under a law passed in the closing days of the last congress, the reserve banks are authorized to loan $200,000,000 to businesses unable to obtain credit through normal channels.

Black's announcement came at the close of a two-day meeting of regional reserve bank governors, during which the lending organization virtually was completed.

The governors also discussed marginal provisions to be fixed under the terms of the New York Stock Market regulation act. Black said all phases of the measure were reviewed and that Dr. Carl R. Perry, a member of the reserve board's research staff, had been sent to New York to make a first-hand study of the exchanges in operation.

The regulations covering the marginal requirements, he added, will not be published immediately. The reserve board is not compelled to submit them until October 1, when the provision becomes effective.

300,000 Given Jobs
In May, Says Green

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today estimated that the ranks of the unemployed were thinned by 300,000 in May, with that trend continuing in early June.

However, he asserted more than 10,000,000 were still jobless and described this as a "basic reason for our tardy business recovery, and a problem in receiving the attention needed" from the nation's industrialists.

Chicago Cafe Owner
Is Kidnaped, Freed

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP)—Andrew Sciacca, cafe owner, reported kidnaped, returned to his home tonight about 24 hours after he had been spirited away by six men posing as policemen.

The report of his safe return was telephoned by his wife to police a few hours after a guard had been with him from the home to give the supposed abductors opportunity to contact the family.

The return occurred only a short time after the family, using a state representative saying he was certain Sciacca was kidnaped "by his friends" and making an appeal for them to contact him.

No One of Bills Considered Important as All Are Routine and Several Benefit Only Individual Persons.

ANNOUNCES RADIO
TALK ON THURSDAY

Will Report to the People on State of Nation at 8:30 Atlanta Time Tomorrow Night.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned to his White House desk today. Disposed of a number of bills passed by congress last week, surveyed the recovery campaign with his executive council and arranged for a talk to the nation over the air Thursday night.

The Thursday night address will be in the nature of a periodic report to the people on the state of the Union and will be delivered over the radio at 8:30 p. m. eastern standard time.

Votes Bills.

Mr. Roosevelt broke precedent in formally vetoing 14 bills after the adjournment of congress, refusing to follow the constitutional custom of permitting objectionable measures to die simply by failing to sign them within 10 days after the end of the session.

The bills were principally routine measures. A White House statement gave the reasons for the vetoes in a sentence or two for each one.

To Abandon Practice.

The statement said the president desired to take "a more affirmative position" in throwing overboard the practice of "pocket vetoes."

Looking ahead to a departure on Saturday from Annapolis, Md., on his summer vacation, the president said he was further studying today to the selection of the newly-created government commissions.

However, it appeared unlikely that the names would be chosen finally before late in the week.

During the afternoon, the president conferred thoroughly with members of the executive council headed by Frank C. Walker, of New York, and including members of the cabinet and all the recovery chiefs.

"No Politics."

In announcing the radio address for Thursday night, the president emphasized that in his like this summer returning across the country from the west coast he had no political intentions in mind. This word was given

Oil Fraud Charged

To Johnson's Mother

MUSKOGEE, Okla., June 26.—(AP) General Hugh S. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, Okmulgee, Okla., and the NRA administrator's brother, Alex Johnson, Tulsa, were named in a petition filed here today in federal court as co-conspirators in defraud other stockholders in the Major Oil Company, now defunct.

The petition asks Mrs. Johnson to turn over oil properties in Lincoln, Pottawatomie, Grady, McClain and Garvin counties to Henry R. Duncan, of Tulsa, trustee in bankruptcy for the concern.

Duncan claimed Alex Johnson foreclosed the failure of the corporation and deeded the land to his mother December 28, 1933.

TRUE DEMOCRACY REMAINS UNTRIED, SPEAKER ASSERTS

Real democracy has not been tried by the nations of the world, but rather an economic imperialism and dictatorship of wealth, masquerading as democracy, asserted Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, of Atlanta University, speaking Tuesday night before the Southern Institute of International Relations at Wesley Memorial church.

No one need grieve over much, he said, at the present day drift away from democracy, as democracy in the purest sense of the world has not been tried.

Failure of popular government was indicated by the World War and the economic lapse which followed and is shown now as the nations turn to fascism and dictatorship. However, this may be only a temporary phase, said Dr. DuBois, and a greater democracy than ever before may evolve. There will be two sessions of the institute at 8:30 o'clock this morning with Dean B. F. Brown, of North Carolina State College, at Raleigh, speaking at one, and Kirby Page, of New York, editor of the World Tomorrow, speaking at the other.

At 8:15 o'clock tonight Dean Brown will address a public meeting on the subject, "American Prosperity," and Mr. Page will speak at the public session Thursday night.

ROOSEVELT PRAISES TARVER PRISON BILL

Signs Measure Creating Group to Study Manufacturing Range.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP) Prison labor, originally intended to make punishment more severe, took a significant stride today in the direction of its twentieth century purpose, the fitting of the criminal for a useful life outside the penitentiary.

With a statement of gratification, President Roosevelt signed the Tarver bill, drawn to remove the limitations and obstacles that heretofore have prevented the institution of a wide variety of trades in the federal prisons and kept 80 per cent of government convicts idle.

Under the measure, a government-financed corporation will be established with a board of directors empowered to make a thorough study of the problem and say what articles should be produced in the penal institutions, and its say will be final.

Mr. Roosevelt signed the bill, he said, "because it represents a distinct advance in the progress of prison industries." He added: "Without any important competition with private industry or labor, the government can provide increasingly useful work for those who need to learn how to work and to learn that work in itself is honorable and is practical substitute for criminal methods of earning one's livelihood."

MRS. A. P. STRINGER PASSES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. A. P. Stringer, well-known Atlanta woman, died Tuesday night at a private Atlanta hospital. She had been ill for five weeks. She resided at 1071 North Highland avenue, N. E. She is survived by her husband, who is a certified public accountant here; two daughters, Miss Marguerite and Miss Dorothy Stringer, both of Atlanta; her mother, who resides in Talladega, Ala., and a sister. She attended the Druid Hills Methodist church.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Longshoremen's Board Established by F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP) By executive order, President Roosevelt tonight set up a labor board to deal with the longshoremen's strike on the Pacific coast.

The president named the Rt. Rev. Edward J. Hanna as chairman. Others selected were O. K. Cushing and Edward F. McGrady. The board, created in connection with the labor department, was given the name of the "national longshoremen's board."

PITTMAN, STEWART CLASH IN HOTEL; GUARD OFFERED

moot point. Mr. Fleetwood was silent.

Judge Pittman also revealed that during the discussion he quietly got out a small pocketknife and concealed it under his coat.

"I didn't know what was going on and thought I might have to use it," he said referring to the knife.

All agreed that Judge Pittman remained seated during the altercation, at least until the police on the beat came in sight. The judge said that with J. E. B. Stewart, Mr. Stewart's son, in the party and several others he had an idea he might be being "ganged."

Judge Pittman said that Mr. Stewart did not speak any words to him, nor did he speak any words to Mr. Stewart, but he did hear Mr. Stewart talking to Milton Fleetwood and others.

Here are the three versions of the affair:

Pittman Report.

From Judge Pittman: "Early Monday evening I saw my neighbor, Milton Fleetwood, standing in the lobby of the Piedmont hotel. I approached him and as I reached his side I noticed that he was talking to what was Charlie Stewart. Mr. Fleetwood introduced us and I went over and sat down."

"A few minutes later, Mr. Fleetwood came over and sat down with me and while we were talking I noticed Mr. Stewart returning with his son Jeb. Mr. Fleetwood also noted them coming up and got up to meet them. He seemed to note that something was wrong. I heard both Mr. Stewart and Jeb say something about getting the 'lying so and so' and I heard Mr. Fleetwood urge them to leave."

"After some little discussion and comment I heard Mr. Stewart tell Mr. Fleetwood 'we'll get him later.' While the comment was going on Judge Max L. McRae, of the highway board, and Senator C. Z. Hardin, of Ashburn, who was in the Stewart party, came up and took Mr. Stewart by the arm and led him away. I am sure that neither Judge McRae nor Senator Hardin were a party to any assault, which might have been intended."

Stewart Report.

Here's Mr. Stewart's version: "I was visiting some friends at the Piedmont hotel and some of them suggested that I take them down to the Henry Grady hotel in my car, which was parked on the side of the Piedmont hotel. As we were going through the lobby I met my friend, Milton Fleetwood, of Cartersville. I greeted him and as I started out of the lobby I met three or four other friends and as I was talking to them my party started out to my car."

About that time I discovered Pittman in the lobby of the hotel so I called to my party to wait on me a few minutes as there is a dirty lying skunk in the lobby that I want to whip."

"When I made that statement my son, J. E. B. Stewart, who was in the party, immediately came up and requested me to get in the car and settle my differences later. This I refused to do as I have grown tired of a lowdown scum of the earth going about the state telling lies on me. I immediately advanced over to the lounge where Pittman was sitting with Milton Fleetwood and some other party whom I do not know."

"Pittman, you have been going over this state telling lies on me and I am telling you now that you are a dirty lying skunk and I am going to whip you for it."

"When I said that, my son grabbed my arm and at the same instant Mr. Fleetwood got up from his seat and stepped to me and said 'I don't go no further with it and stated that it would be very embarrassing to him. During the whole episode Pittman, following his dirty, cowardly course, never uttered a word of resentment nor batted an eye, and did not move out of his seat, hence there was nothing I could do but to accede to his request of my friend, Fleetwood, and my son and leave the cowardly hound alone. A man with an ounce of manhood or principle in his veins would have resisted such a demand of what I said to him to his teeth."

Fleetwood Report.

Here's Mr. Fleetwood's version: "I regret this incident very much, but since it is, I wish to explain precisely what happened and I am glad to have been able to serve friends of mine in averting something I am sure would have been generally regretted."

"I had an engagement in the Piedmont hotel Monday night with Eugene Speight on business connected with my newspaper."

"While I was talking to Mr. Speight, Charlie Stewart stopped and spoke to me, asking when I had returned from the press convention in Savannah and commenting on the good time we had. Mr. Stewart was there part of the time."

"As we talked, Judge Pittman, without seeing Mr. Stewart, came up and spoke to me. 'I said, Judge, you know Mr. Charlie Stewart, don't you?'"

"He replied quietly, 'I know the gentleman, and walked away and sat down.'"

"In a very few minutes, while I was sitting talking to Judge Pittman, Mr. Stewart and two or three gentlemen I did not know approached and I heard Mr. Stewart say in an angry voice: 'There he is' and he pointed out Judge Pittman and said something that was very general and I don't remember what it was at that time."

"I stood up quickly and walking up to Mr. Stewart I grasped his coat and said to him: 'Charlie, you can't do this. Don't let a thing like this happen.'"

"One of Mr. Stewart's companions came up and demanded to know who I was and Mr. Stewart explained I was his friend."

"They then agreed to go away saying something about 'attending to it later.'"

Just "Flare-up."

"Judge Pittman, in the meanwhile, had not moved and when I went back to him I found him sitting tensely, ready to defend himself, but otherwise calm."

"It was just one of those flare-ups that intense political campaigns develop, I think."

"As I say I am sorry to have been compelled to take a part in it, but I am glad to have been able to prevent any regrettable encounter between the men."

"I was there strictly on business and would not have seen either Mr. Stewart or Judge Pittman except fortuitously."

Judge McRae said he took no part in the affair and really arrived in the lobby after it was all over. Judge Pittman confirmed this statement and said Judge McRae said nothing in so far as he heard. Senator Hardin, also said the discussion was ended when he arrived on the scene.

No case was made against any of those concerned and no report was filed at the police station.

Named in Speeches.

In his speeches at Calhoun, Swainsboro, Carrollton and Camilla, Judge Pittman has attacked Mr. Stewart's activities in connection with the Talmadge administration.

He charged that Mr. Stewart and Hugh Howell, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, had been jointly interested in obtaining a number of pardons for convicts in which fees were involved. He also charged that Mr. Stewart was interested in a contract to set the Madison-Eaton road paved and made the charge that Mr. Stewart was interested in other projects in which state money was spent.

Governor Talmadge had no comment and evidenced little interest when informed of Monday night's affair.

SHIP CABIN SEARCHED BY PODERJAY PROBERS

Officers Seek Clue on Liner Which Took Woman Barrister's Husband to Europe.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP) Sixteen picked detectives, equipped with elaborate scientific apparatus, tonight ransacked the Olympic liner cabin in which Ivan Ivanovich Poderjay, handsome Yugoslavian husband of the vanished Agnes Colvin Tufersov, traveled to England alone two days after she disappeared.

While the officers sought footprints in obscure corners and peered under bunks and into the closet, Sally Tufersov, attractive young sister of the missing barrister, leaned against the white doorway and sobbed.

At first it seemed she would faint. But she didn't. The calmness with which she had walked on board gave way to sobs and sobs and sobs.

Two sturdy detectives grasped a husky companion and pushed him through the open porthole, holding firmly to his heels. The body of a 175-pound man could pass easily through the porthole, and below was only the sea to stop any object dropped out.

He wanted to come, but I should have stayed away. I dreaded seeing this cabin," said Sally Tufersov, wiping her eyes on a tiny white handkerchief. She wore a cream-colored dress and close-fitting blue beret. Until she approached the cabin she seemed not in the least disturbed by the inquiry.

Authorities debated a move to indict Poderjay on charges growing out of the disappearance of Miss Tufersov, while Captain Agnes and his men searched the Olympic.

Inmate of Stockade Is Fatally Stricken

G. B. Potter, 33, who gave police a Central avenue address, suffered an attack while serving a sentence at the city stockade Tuesday afternoon and died before he could reach the hospital in an ambulance.

According to records at the police station Potter went to the stockade on June 23 to serve a sentence of 60 days. He was fined $27 or 30 days, by the recorder on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and $22 or 30 days, on charges of driving while intoxicated. He failed to pay either fine.

Potter was working in the hot sun and about 3:30 o'clock collapsed, possibly from the heat, physicians at Grady hospital, where he was taken by a H. M. Patterson & Son ambulance. He was pronounced dead on arrival. Arrangements will be announced by Patterson's.

to newspapermen through Stephen T. Early, a secretary.

Probably landing early in August at Portland, Ore., Mr. Roosevelt will travel back to the White House by train over the northern section of the country. Talks probably will be made at several points along the route, very likely at Minneapolis and Green Bay, Wis., where the state centennial celebration will be held.

Among the acts vetoed by the president, and his comments concerning them, were the following:

An act for the relief of James Moffitt.

"It does not seem reasonable to believe that malaria and large doses of quinine prevented this man from knowing he was deserting in view of the fact that he thereafter stayed in Chicago for a year and then went home without apparently trying in any way to clear his record."

An act to correct the naval records of former employees of the crews of the revenue cutters Algonquin and Onondaga.

"This bill is disapproved because it stretches the imagination to declare men on a revenue cutter for 17 days on the Great Lakes in August, 1898, to be entitled to all the privileges of Spanish war veterans."

An act to provide medical service after the retirement on annuity to former employees of the United States disabled by injuries sustained in the performance of their duties.

"I am disapproving this bill because I fear that if this principle is established it will grow and grow like war pensions and that would be a pity for our children and grandchildren."

CADMAN IS HONORED BY CHURCH MEETING

OVERLIN, Ohio, June 26.—(AP) Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., today was elected honorary moderator of the Central Congregational and Christian Churches and the Rev. Dr. Jay T. Stocking, of St. Louis, was elected moderator.

The election of Dr. Cadman, for 32 years pastor of the Central Congregational church in his home city, came by acclamation and marks the second time in the church's history that the honor has been conferred.

Calvin Coolidge, former president of the United States, was honorary moderator from 1923 to 1929. C. Harrell, pastor of First Christian church at Durham, N. C., and president of the Southern Congregational and Christian convention, was elected assistant moderator.

COUPLE BLOWN TO BITS AS BLAST WRECKS AUTO

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, June 26.—(AP) A man and his wife were blown to bits in an explosion of their automobile last night and authorities are attempting to determine if it were a double murder or a murder and suicide.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. William L. Gardner, both about 50, of Zanesville. A "hot shot" battery indicated the possibility a bomb might have been in the auto.

PHONE COMPANY ASKS U. S. COURT TO BAR RATE CUT

on that day would begin cross-examination of the companies' witnesses. The commission Tuesday was preparing an order reducing rates of the Georgia Power and Light Company which serves the Valdosta, Waycross and other south Georgia areas. This order will be completed and made public today. The size of the reduction could not be learned Tuesday.

Suspensions Cited.

Governor Talmadge several months ago suspended all five members of the public service commission on the charge they had showed favoritism to utilities and appointed the present commission. Tuesday's petition charged the governor obtained their views before he appointed them to office and that he selected them with the understanding they would reduce utility rates on pain of removal from office.

The petition for contempt proceedings was directed against the Georgia public service commission, Judge P. T. Holt, chairman; George Goode, J. B. Daniel, Ben T. Huie and Tom Davis, individually and as members of the commission.

It pointed out that on February 3, 1934, the United States district court for the northern district of Georgia enjoined the commission from enforcing or carrying out orders reducing the rates of the petitioner, but on May 15 the petitioner was again ruled to show cause why its rates should not be reduced and a further hearing was held on May 20.

Contempt Alleged.

"The attention of the commission was called to the existing injunction and it was specifically warned that the rates of the petitioner would be the subject of this court, but notwithstanding this warning it proceeded and on June 22, 1934, entered an order directing a new schedule of rates," the petition of the telephone company said. "By an examination of said schedule of rates and comparison with the enjoined rates it will appear that the rate schedule of June 22 is in direct and open violation of the outstanding injunction of this court."

In the majority of instances it is the exact schedule of rates enjoined by this court. In one-half of the remaining instances the new rates are lower than in the enjoined order. In a few instances there were slight increases but the increases were so slight as to be only colorable. In substance and effect the rates are a repetition of the previous ones."

The petition says this is the third time the company has been compelled to appear in federal court and adds "the repetition of this litigation shows a deliberate attempt to trifle with the jurisdiction and authority of this court by the respondents. Notwithstanding express notice that it would be in contempt of this court, the commission deliberately and intentionally and apparently defiantly proceeded."

The company asks in its petition that the court be issued against each member of the commission requiring him to "show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of federal court and be dealt with as such" and "upon the hearing of said rule the court adjudge them in contempt and take such action as may appear to the court to be proper and secure to the petitioner and the full protection of the injunction heretofore granted."

Financial Interest.

Going further, the petition says "the rate reduction order of June 22, 1934, is void because the members of the commission were wholly disqualified by having a direct financial interest in the result of their action. There has been widely published in the newspapers of the state and never denied a statement that each member of the commission was on notice from the governor that unless the commission did reduce the rates of all public utilities in Georgia the governor would exercise his power to remove them and they would lose their salaries and emoluments of office."

The petition pointed out that such a situation was a violation of the Georgia law against a judge or commissioner having a financial interest in a case before him and also a denial of the due process provisions of both the federal and state constitutions.

The petition declared the federal courts retain jurisdiction in the Georgia rate cases despite the passage of the federal Johnson bill, because the cases were already pending when that measure was signed by the president and also because the Johnson bill provides state courts take jurisdiction.

MOULTRIE TO HOLD MELON FETE TODAY

Hundreds Expected To Attend the Third Annual Festival in South Ga.

MOULTRIE, Ga., June 26.—(P)—Carloads of watermelons rolled to northern and eastern markets from this section today but the biggest and best were laid aside by growers for the third annual watermelon festival tomorrow.

Hundreds of people from surrounding counties were expected to attend the festival and enjoy an all-day entertainment program.

The day's activities will begin with the weighing of the largest melons entered in the parade. A number of nearby towns have entered floats in the parade. Dr. Paul W. Chapman, of the University of Georgia, is on the program for an address on results of the work by the AAA to increase farm returns.

A baseball game, water fight, spiritual singing by 50 negroes and a street dance were arranged by the committee in charge.

Cedartown To Unveil Tablet To Senator W. J. Harris Today

By W. M. BOOZ.
CEDARTOWN, Ga., June 26.—Governor Eugene Talmadge will be among the Georgia notables who will speak at the unveiling of a tablet here Wednesday honoring the late United States Senator William J. Harris.

The Cedartown Valley Garden Club launched the movement to honor the illustrious senator, and have arranged for brilliant ceremonies to mark the event.

Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Atlanta Constitution, will make the presentation for the club. Professor James C. Harris, of Cave Springs, a brother of the senator, will make the acceptance.

All business of the city will be suspended during the exercises and the club has extended an invitation to all relatives, friends and admirers of the late senator to be present, while many prominent national and state personages are expected to be here.

The program will begin at 10 o'clock with a parade which will include local Boy Scout units, Company K. N. G. A., the American Legion, the Lighthouse and other organizations. The unveiling exercises will be held at natural stone on the spot by the big spring where the senator died.

Notables to Speak.
Colonel C. C. Rynn will be master of ceremonies. Miss Kate Young will give a welcome address on behalf of the Cedar Valley Garden Club, while the mayor, Dr. J. J. Cooper, will speak on behalf of the city. The presentation of the tablet will then be made by Clark Howell, of Atlanta; Miss Julia Harris, the daughter of the senator, will unveil this, while the acceptance will be made by Professor James C. Harris.

Among the prominent men also expected to speak are Senator Richard B. Russell, Senator Walter F. George, Congressman H. C. Tarver, Major John S. Cohen, of Atlanta, and Colonel Ed Maddox, of Rome. The United States and Georgia state flags will be unfurled during the ceremonies.

Artificial Silk, Film and Lacquers
Among Products of Georgia Pine

By ROBERT BUNNELLE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
SAVANNAH, Ga., June 26.—(P) Scientists are cutting down the old pine tree and converting it into pulp from which artificial silk, film, newspaper, explosives and lacquers can be made.

An experimental laboratory operated here under Dr. Charles H. Herty, of the University of Georgia, is producing artificial silk, film, newspaper, explosives and lacquers from pine pulp.

The latest experiments, following on those by which Dr. Herty developed a process for making pine pulp into white paper, have just been started with a view to making pine forests produce artificial fabrics and nitro-cellulose, a material used in films, celluloid, automobile lacquers, gunpowder and for other purposes.

In making rayon by the "viscose" process, Mr. Herty explained, the same kind of pulp used in the newspaper industry is the first step. This is made by grinding the pine logs to pieces in a machine something like a huge pencil sharpener, cooking the chips in acid solution under pressure, washing, bleaching and then rolling them into sheets like pieces of blotting paper.

These are dipped in a caustic solution, the excess pressed out and the impregnated sheet ground up to a kind of meal.

The next step is to treat this meal

Funeral Services Will Be Held at Eatonton Church for Noted Georgian.

EATONTON, Ga., June 26.—Funeral services for Dr. Benjamin W. Hunt, noted Georgian and nationally known horticulturist, who died Tuesday at his residence here will be held at the Eatonton Presbyterian church.

Dr. Hunt, who was born in Eatonton, Ga., in 1858, was the son of Dr. Charles H. Harris and Margaret Anne Monk Harris. He completed his education at the University of Georgia.

He was private secretary to the late Senator Alexander S. Clay; he served in the state senate from 1912 to 1913; was director of the United States census 1913-15; and federal trade commissioner 1918, and the United States senator from 1919 until his death, April 18, 1932. He was noted as a hard-working constructive statesman without

He married Miss Julia Wheeler, daughter of Fighting Joe Wheeler of the Confederate army and Spanish-American War fame. Harris survived by his wife and a daughter, Miss Julia Harris.

Prominent Survivors.
Senator Harris is survived by four brothers, all of whom have made notable names for themselves. Professor James C. Harris is now superintendent of the Georgia Institute of Technology. General Peter C. Harris, U. S. A., retired, was adjutant during the war and won special distinction. Dr. Seal Harris, of Birmingham, Ala., enjoys national prominence in medical circles. Major Hunter Harris, U. S. A., is now commandant of the Athens school. Senator Harris also leaves three sisters, Mrs. John Quinn, of Barnesville; Mrs. C. G. Jones and Mrs. Della Garrett, of Cedartown.

Dr. Hunt was conducted Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the Eatonton Presbyterian church. Interment will follow in Pine Grove cemetery here.

The death of Dr. Hunt, early Tuesday followed illness of about one year, during which time he was very feeble. He was 85 years old. He is survived by a nephew, Benjamin Hunt, of New York.

Dr. Hunt settled in Georgia, coming from Westchester county, New York, in 1876 with his bride, the late Louise Prudden Hunt, native of Georgia who was widely known as a writer of prose and poetry.

He served as a member of the board of directors of the Georgia experiment station, and was past president of the Georgia Horticultural Society. The University of Georgia conferred upon him an honorary degree and he once was nominated for the U. S. senate by the Georgia State Republican party.

A side line developed into a vehicle of prominence as one of the south's most noted horticulturists and plant life.

A one-time banker, Dr. Hunt turned to research as a hobby and his explorations resulted in notable developments in cross-breeding of plants and in the diagnosis and treatment of diseases of animals.

Of all his accomplishments, he considered his greatest achievement the initiation of the movement which led to the eradication of the cattle tick in Georgia.

He started the campaign against the tick with a small appropriation made available by Putnam county and saw the movement spread until it covered the entire state. His herd of Jersey included some of the first registered cattle brought into the state.

The bite of a rabid cat sent Dr. Hunt to France for treatment by Louis Pasteur in 1898 and upon his return helped the movement which resulted in the organization of the Georgia Pasteur Institute. Dr. Hunt conducted his plant experiments in the spacious garden surrounding the high-columned ante-bellum home here.

The most successful of his work in the field of horticulture was the development of a fig that bears its fruit in the form of a green ischia, native to the country, with one from Smyrna. The combination turned out to be a sweeter, harder fruit.

For some time Dr. Hunt had been experimenting with sweet peas, hopeful of transferring the fragrance of the annual to the perfumeless perennial of the same family through a process of pollenization. Only recently he announced that he expected to soon bring his work to a successful conclusion.

Many plants and fruits whose habits and customs Dr. Hunt changed, grew about his place. There is a superlative named for him and the form of citrus which he grew by crossing an orange and a grapefruit, the result resembling a cantaloupe.

Much success was enjoyed by Dr. Hunt in hand pollenization, especially with palms, some of which were sent to him by the government for observation and experimentation. He visited and collaborated with Burbank on some of his work.

LINDER WILL OPEN HIS CAMPAIGN TODAY
HAZELHURST, Ga., June 26.—Tom Linder, of Hazelhurst, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, will open his campaign at a fish-fry here tomorrow. Linder's address is scheduled for 11 o'clock. Gordon Knox, of Hazelhurst, who is running for judge of the superior court, also will speak. The fish-fry will follow the speaking.

A motorcade of Linder supporters will come here from Laurens county where he operates a farm. Hundreds of other visitors are expected from the surrounding counties.

Mr. Munday was a son of the late William and Emily Clarke Munday. He is survived by several relatives in Columbus, among them being a brother, David C. Munday, and two cousins, Andrew Prather and Dr. R. C. Prather.

NOTE BELIEVED FORGED
BY BACHELORS' KILLERS
MCALISTER, Okla., June 26.—(P)—A mystery of the lonely southeastern Oklahoma hills—the three slain bachelors of Canadian, Okla., deepened tonight.

Eight residents of the isolated hamlet were taken into custody for questioning, and authorities reached a tentative conclusion that bitterness resulting from moonshine liquor traffic and thefts of crops which might have been at the bottom of the killings. Otherwise, developments served only to complicate the inquiry.

Sheriff Bob Lacey said he believed the slain bachelors were the brush near the hatched and bullet-riddled bodies of William Gann, 24; Homer Beasley, 27, and Hobart Watkins, 29, was forged by the killer or killers to avert suspicion.

Court to Decide If Liquor Can Move Through Georgia to Wet States

ALBANY, June 26.—(P)—A temporary restraining order, preventing Sheriff O. F. Tarver and his officers from confiscating, destroying, or otherwise interfering with the status of the whisky, was granted Tuesday by Judge B. C. Gardner, judge of Dougherty superior court, as the latest skirmish in a liquor battle begun here last Saturday when officers arrested four men and held a truck containing more than 100 cases of bottled-in-bond liquor.

The men, who gave the names of Wolf Silver, T. C. Johnson, R. C. Mason and Henry Powell, all of Savannah, were placed in jail immediately after being arrested, but were later released under bonds of $200 each.

The restraining order, granted the men through their attorney, sets July 14 as the date for a hearing in California.

H. B. ROBERTS, ALBANY, HEADS GEORGIA ELKS

BRUNSWICK, Ga., June 26.—(P)—H. B. Roberts, of Albany, was elected president of the Georgia Elks association, and Columbus was selected as the 1935 convention city, at the closing session of the association's annual meeting today.

COURT CHANGES URGED BY ATLANTA JURIST

Judge Humphries Tells Women Democrats at Griffin of Reforms.

GRIFIN, Ga., June 26.—(P)—Jury service by women and separate penal institutions for youthful criminals were advocated by Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton (Atlanta) county superior court, in an address before the executive committee of the Georgia Woman's Federation of Democratic Clubs here today.

Judge Humphries also urged a separate count of domestic relations in the larger centers, the courts to be given jurisdiction over the problem growing out of family relations.

The Atlanta jurist said that young men thrown into the same chain gang or prison with hardened criminals "did not have a chance." He suggested the teaching of vocations to the young prisoners and asked that juvenile court jurisdiction be extended to those 21 years old.

Earlier, the executive committee had approved a plan suggested by the women's division of the democratic national committee to "get as many individuals as possible in each community thoroughly informed about some one part of the New Deal" so that the nation might know the merits of the president's recovery program.

Mrs. J. A. Rollison, Waycross, president, in an outline of work for the coming year suggested that all members of the various clubs throughout the state familiarize themselves with and work for the following measures:

Strengthening of national laws to suppress crime, old age pensions, child labor laws, equal legal status for women, universal draft act, and in Georgia a law to have all teachers in schools take an oath of allegiance to the national and state constitutions and jury duty for women.

PAVING WORK STARTS ON LAMAR COUNTY LINK

BARNESVILLE, Ga., June 26.—(P)—Work on state highway No. 7 began Monday morning, with the Whitney Construction Company, of LaGrange, in charge. Paving will be laid from the city limits of Barnesville to the Monroe county line, a distance of nine and one-half miles, on the Barnesville-Fort Valley road, a short route to Florida. H. B. Candler, superintendent, and John Whitley Jr., together with 30 families and about 200 employees, arrived in Barnesville last week. A large number of local workers will also be employed. All unloading and hauling will be done from Barnesville. The contract calls for 100 working days.

Schools Get $343,821 By Gas Tax Increase

State Treasurer George B. Hamilton Tuesday announced that the increased income in gasoline taxes for the first six months of the year had resulted in an increase of $213,590 to the state school equalization fund and an increase of $130,231 in the funds from the gas tax which are paid directly to counties.

The state gas tax income increased from $5,759,420 during the first six months of 1933 to $6,811,088 during the first six months of this year.

"The increased gas levy is due to the cheap tags," Mr. Hamilton said. "The cheap tags have brought more funds into that treasury for the schools."

Summer School Opens.

President John Hope, of Atlanta University, welcomed to the Atlanta University summer school its largest contingent of summer-time students. Within the university and its allied institutions nearly 600 persons are studying this summer.

The work of the summer session will be widened next week when the annual rural institute will open on Monday, July 2, to continue for two weeks.

Salary Adjustments Will Be Heard July 3

Referring to a special subcommittee, headed by Councilman Aubrey Milam, the study of proposed salary adjustments of city employees in lower brackets, the finance committee of council Tuesday afternoon sidestepped at least for the present any definite stand in the matter.

Milam announced he would call his committee into session at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night, July 3, at the city hall.

A petition signed by 1,300 members of the twelfth ward and presented by Mrs. Kate Green Hess, sought $2,500 for establishment of a branch library in that section of the city.

Councilman George B. Lyle, of the eleventh, also presented a measure seeking $2,000 for a branch in the eleventh ward. He asserted that the city already owns a tract of land and has a portable building located in the eleventh. In addition, he pointed out that there are about 8,500 students attending schools in the eleventh included among which is the J. C. Murphy Junior High school.

Both the library measures also were referred to subcommittees.

DECATUR ATTORNEY ADDED TO LAW FIRM

Bonneau Ansley, city attorney of Decatur, has been made a member of the law firm of Bryan, Middlebrooks

What would summer nights be without the fireflies? I have had a weakness for the "lightning bugs" ever since my very youngest days when I caught them by the literal hundreds and imprisoned them in glass jars, making of them improvised lanterns. My small daughter began this time-honored custom herself the other night, bringing back to me those other days when the lantern-bearers were something besides mere beetles of the family Lampyridae.

Yes, they are beetles, but without the typical hard elytra or wing covers of most beetles. Their soft wing covers make no sound whatever as these insects course their erratic ways through the impending night. Notice their high-arching flight across the lawn; see how they pause, flash their lamps, and sail away to the peak of another curve. Did you know that this light that the fireflies make is the only light known that is without heat? Possibly I should say that heat, if present at all, is in too minute a quantity to be appreciable at all, even to those marvelously delicate thermocouples that register temperature by the deviation of a delicate galvanometer needle. All other known light sources involve the destruction of matter by combustion, but not the fireflies, evidently. But as to that, who knows? Possibly our highly valued instruments are yet too crude to detect the flash of thermal energy radiated by the lightning beetle.

These little lamps are the signal lights of those beetles seeking mates. There are some 50 or 60 species of lightning bugs in America, and in some of them the female is wingless but equipped with light. Experiments on these species have been most convincing, for females confined in opaque boxes provided with ventilation attracted no males at all, while those confined in glass vials attracted the male insects, showing that the sight of the light, which even to my poor vision varies in color and intensity, is the thing that brings the animals together for breeding. These experiments are mentioned by Dr. Comstock in his "Introduction to Entomology," a book of something over 1,000 pages. Rather a bit too long for an introduction is it not? I like my introductions short and to the point.

The fireflies, however, form one zoological group for which scientific familiarity has no meaning to me. They are still the lightning bugs of my early days, and as such are to be enjoyed before the moon rises and fades their already feeble lights into insignificance.

STATE ADVERTISED BY STANDARD OIL

In a series of advertisements to begin at once in The Constitution, and other leading daily and weekly papers throughout Georgia, the Standard Oil Company will feature the many spots of beauty and historical interest in Georgia.

One advertisement will feature the famous "Golden Isles" of Georgia; other ads will feature the famous mountain sections of north Georgia, the many popular resorts, and interesting things to see and do in middle and south Georgia.

In an interview at Atlanta, R. E. Holzeon, district manager for Georgia of the Standard Oil Company, Inc., stated: "No state has more to offer its people in the way of spots of historical interest, or a greater variety of scenic beauty than Georgia. Along Georgia's coast are seashore resorts that are excelled by none. North Georgia is honeycombed with delightful mountain resorts, and magnificent mountain scenery that is unsurpassed. In middle and south Georgia are Warm Springs, Radium Springs, Indian Springs and scores of spots of historical interest that every Georgian should see. Whether you like to spend your vacation at the seashore or in the mountains; whether you like to swim, golf or motor—Georgia can fill the bill."

"We feel that by calling the attention of the Georgia motorist to the many interesting things to see and do in every section of his state, we will be doing him a favor, and at the same time stimulate business this summer for Georgia hotels, resorts and merchants in general."

American Priest Slain By Bandits in China

HONGKONG, June 26.—(AP)—The Dominican mission today received word from Santub that the Rev. Father Urban O. Martin, a young American from New Orleans who came to China a short time ago, had been murdered by Chinese communists at Fogan in southern Fukien.

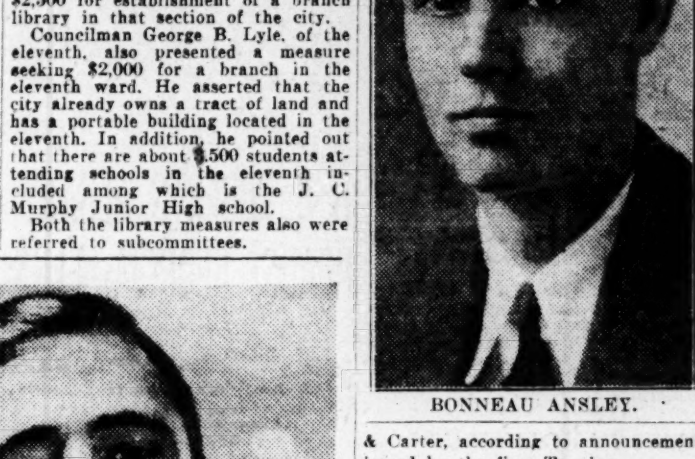

Another missionary, the Rev. Father Bravo, who was captured by the communists in January, is still missing and is believed to have been killed.

The mission learned that many of the churches and seminaries in the district around Fogan were occupied by the communists last month. No further details came through from the district.

SALUTE—A radio salute to the Byrd Antarctic Expedition by the regular broadcast to and from Little America over the WGST-Columbia network tonight from 8 to 8:30 o'clock. The greetings from the South American republic will originate at Buenos Aires.

It is particularly fitting that the Argentine should be the first foreign country to present a formal salute to Byrd and his crew. Buenos Aires, its beautiful capital, has played an important role as the primary relay point in the broadcasts from Antarctica.

A high Argentine official will speak and one of the country's foremost tango orchestras will play.

The spring exploration plans and the scientific program of the expedition will be disclosed during the portion of the broadcast from Little America. Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, chief scientist and second in command; Captain Alan Innes-Taylor, director of trail operations; and Harold I. June, who is in charge of aviation, will speak.

DEAN SPEAKS—Dean Raimundo de Orlas, "Your Neighbor," may be heard in another of his popular discussions this evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

FINAL RECITAL—Albert Spalding will be heard in his final radio recital of the season over the nationwide WGST-Columbia network, tonight from 8:30 to 9 o'clock. America's foremost violinist will offer his interpretations of Schubert's famous devotional aria, "Ave Maria," Rimsky-Korsakoff's ever-pleasing "Hymn to the Sun," and "Gypsy Airs," of Sarasate.

Conrad Tillbaut, popular young baritone, will sing "Gloria Road," "To

U. S. Court Speeds Housing Projects

Final legal steps in both the Techwood and Atlanta University housing projects will be taken in the federal court next Monday when condemnation proceedings against 120 parcels in the former will be opened. The case will go before a jury, and is expected to be completed during the morning.

On the same date, Judge E. Marvin Underwood will sign an order for the disbursement of $256,000 to owners of 134 parcels in the university project. These have been condemned, but the court would not sign an order to pay the money until the owners had had time to vacate. Monday's order will clear the way for demolition of the buildings and the start of the work.

The court will probably allow the Techwood tenants a period in which to vacate, and the owners are expected to be paid $507,000 for their property, beginning about July 12. The buildings will be wrecked as soon as the money is paid.

FARMER IS KILLED DEKALB CRASH

Several Injured in Accidents in Atlanta Area on Tuesday.

Henry O. Blount, 51-year-old farmer residing in the Hog Mountain district of DeKalb county, was killed in an automobile crash on the Lawrenceville road Tuesday about three miles east of Tucker.

Several other persons were injured in a series of accidents in and near Atlanta Tuesday.

Blount was riding in a car driven by Raymond M. Higgins, of Lawrenceville. The car attempted to pass a truck owned by G. W. Sumner, of Winder, and driven by Cecil Sims, of Winder, and met another car in a head-on crash. Blount was thrown free of the machine and buried under the wheels of the truck. He was killed almost instantly.

The driver of the other machine was W. E. McKinney, of Atlanta. Both he and Higgins were slightly cut and bruised. Robert Holland, of Lawrenceville, riding with Higgins, was unhurt. Chief W. O. Parker, of DeKalb county police, booked a case against Higgins.

Earl Rabum, 751 Ashby street, was treated at Grady hospital Tuesday morning for a broken wrist received when he was struck by an automobile at the railroad crossing on Ashby street. According to police reports the car was driven by J. A. Landers of an Arlington avenue, S. W., address.

Lonnie Nelms, 24, of Stone Mountain, was seriously injured about noon when the truck he was driving struck a telephone pole and was pinned beneath his machine and a load of crushed rock. The accident occurred on Boulder Crest drive near Decatur road when the driver averted to miss striking an automobile. At Grady hospital it was ascertained that his chest had been crushed. Grady attaches Tuesday night reported that he was resting "fairly well."

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Richardson, of Conyers, an dtheir daughter, Mrs. Curtis Richardson, were treated at Wesley Memorial hospital Tuesday afternoon as the result of an accident at Church street and Ponce de Leon avenue in Decatur. Their machine, driven by Curtis Richardson, who was unhurt, collided with a beer truck driven by Ben Rollins.

The Richardson were en route to the hospital with two children of Curtis Richardson, one of whom was to be operated on. The children were unhurt. Cases were made against both drivers.

REV. FATHER CLARK WILL BE INVESTED MONSIGNOR TODAY

In celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination, the Rev. Father Harry F. Clark, pastor of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church, today will be invested with the rank of monsignor by the Rt. Rev. Michael J. Keys, of Savannah, bishop of the diocese of Georgia.

The investiture will take place at services beginning at 10 o'clock this morning. All priests of the Atlanta area and a number from other cities are expected to attend and participate in the ceremony. Following the investiture a luncheon will be served in the church basement, honoring Monsignor Clark and Bishop Keys. The visitors then will be taken on a motor tour of the city, returning for a public reception in the monsignor's home tonight.

Father Clark was ordained at Carnegie, Pa., on June 5, 1909, and immediately assigned to the Georgia diocese. He served one year at a mission in Albany and was moved to Athens. In all he has spent about 17 years working in Georgia missions.

Father Clark was named pastor of St. Anthony's on January 1, 1928, and has served here continuously since. During his service here he has become identified with a number of important civic movements and has been a leader in the civic and religious life of the city.

MATTHEWS CANDIDATE FOR EDUCATION BOARD

W. W. Matthews, editor of the Citizens News, a weekly publication, and former editor of the Fulton Record, of West End, another weekly, announced Tuesday he will be a candidate for the Atlanta board of education from the fourth ward to succeed J. Ira Harrelson, president of the board.

Matthews lives with his family at 802 Vedado way and has taken much interest in politics and in civic work of Atlanta for many years. He is 42 years old.

He said he will issue a statement regarding his candidacy within a few days. He will enter subject to the city democratic primary, September 26.

Harrelson has not indicated whether he will offer to succeed himself or not.

$1,800 in Cash Prizes!

By THE SAYINGAME EDITOR.

Of all the ways to earn money—the Sayingame is by far the easiest and most interesting. It's really play—fascinating, exciting play, rather than work. It's just a matter of looking over the pictures as they appear each day, and searching out the most appropriate old sayings for them. It isn't necessary to be a subscriber—and you don't have to canvas your friends for subscriptions.

Sayingame followers are urged to call or send for the valuable list of hundreds of old sayings which The Constitution has published for free distribution. The list will be found helpful in finding solutions. Mail requests for the list, which is printed with the first 12 pictures of the series, should be accompanied by 3 cents to cover postage.

Sharpen up your wits and corral one of the $1,800 in cash prizes!

No. 19 This old saying is:

Note: These pictures are drawn to represent old sayings selected from the book, "Sayings of the Wise."

INSTRUCTIONS.

The total amount of the prizes to be awarded entrants in the Sayingame is $1,800. The first prize is $1,000; the second $400; the third $100; the fourth $75 and the fifth $25. The major prizes are supplemented by ten prizes of $10 each and 20 prizes of $5 each.

The prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the 80 most appropriate old sayings for the series of 80 pictures. No subscription is necessary to qualify for any of the prizes, and non-subscribers are eligible. Entrants are not required to register.

The Sayingame pictures and answers are not to be submitted now. Wait until all of the pictures have been published, then bring or mail them in at one time, as a set.

Georgia Homicide Rate Highest In Nation, Boykin Tells Rotarians

Georgia's homicide rate is the highest in the Union and Atlanta as a crime center ranks second among American cities, even outranking Chicago, popularly considered the leader, John A. Boykin told the Rotary Club Tuesday at its Capital City Club luncheon.

For this the solicitor-general of Fulton county blamed a system of jurisprudence. "100 per cent antiquated," the nation as a whole pays 13 billion dollars a year for crime and he added the startling assertion that whereas in 1880 one person out of every 12 tried for murder was executed, now only one out of 120 were meted the extreme penalty of the law.

Robert Troutman, the attorney, who introduced Mr. Boykin, said that England had the most perfect system of jurisprudence. A commission had brought about this reform and Mr. Troutman said that this result without doubt was due to the fact that the commission was composed of laymen and only three lawyers. He scored his profession roundly for its failure to encourage this sort of reform.

Mr. Boykin agreed with this view and said that every session of the legislature considered at least one measure which would further cripple the authority of judges in criminal cases.

"One of the main defects of our criminal law," the solicitor explained, "is that a band of criminals committing a series of crimes must be indicted for each offense, instead of allowing the indictment to cover all. Another bad feature is the right of severance granted to a band of offenders charged with one offense. That is, each offender may demand and receive a separate trial. This means, in the case of five offenders, five juries and the extra expense of bringing them to court."

He cited a case at Valdosta where a band of five men murdered an old couple. Separate trials were demanded and the county spent $30,000 to convict these offenders.

He mentioned the advantage in peremptory challenges given to defendants and the technical appeals that are allowed. He added that repeated efforts to get a bill before the legislature reforming court procedure had failed. He asked the cooperation of the Rotarians in another attempt.

MRS. U. M'L. KIEFFER, WAR NURSE, SUCCUMBS

Funeral Rites Today for President of Overseas Service League Here.

Mrs. U. McLaws Kieffer, wife of the widely-known physician, died Tuesday morning at her residence on East Pace's Ferry road after an illness of several months. She was 37.

As the former Miss Gertrude Lablitt, Mrs. Kieffer served overseas during the World War. She was a trained nurse with the French army prior to the United States' entry into the war and later was stationed at Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's hospital. She was president of the Woman's Overseas Service League of Atlanta at the time of her death.

Mrs. Kieffer toured a large portion of the United States during the war, making speeches for the Liberty loan drive. After that she returned to France and was stationed at hospitals at Nievre and Gievre, France, until June of 1919.

While she was at Mrs. Whitney's hospital she met Dr. Kieffer, who was also stationed there for a period of the war. The Atlanta woman had many dangerous experiences in the war and for a time she drove an ambulance from the front lines to base hospitals.

She was a member of St. Luke's Episcopal church and of the Garden Hills Woman's Club, as well as being active in the Woman's Overseas Service League, members of which will form an honorary escort at her funeral.

The rites will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Luke's, and Dr. John Moore Walker will officiate. Interment will be in West View cemetery, with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Surviving are her husband; a son, McLaws Kieffer; her mother, Mrs. H. F. Lablitt, of Minneapolis, Minn.; a sister and two brothers.

Farm Debt Adjustment Method Explained by Haden to Civitans

Preservation of the nation's agricultural structure is largely dependent upon the success of the farm debt adjustment program undertaken by the federal government, Charles J. Haden, chairman of the Georgia state and adjustment committee, said Tuesday. Mr. Haden was the speaker at the Civitan Club luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

"The alternative," he said, "is farmers' dispossession of their lands and either occupying them as tenants, wandering the country in search of employment or dependent on the FERA, and our farm lands owned by business men who do not want them and cannot sell or rent them."

Essentially, the Atlanta philanthropist told the Civitans the adjustment program amounts to friendly bankruptcy without the delay and expense and friction of judicial bankruptcy.

If the farmers and their creditors can be brought together on a settlement which the farmer can pay, he went on, everybody benefits.

"The debt-fettered farmer again is a free man, back on his home place with a new chance," he said. "The creditor has more money than he could have gotten in most cases through foreclosure and our farming structure is preserved."

Farms Mortgaged.
As indications of the necessity of some such program, Mr. Haden recited statistics which indicated 33.1 per cent of all farms in Georgia were mortgaged and records of the federal banking system which showed $11,000,000 in farm loans approved in the state in the last 12 months have gone unaccepted because the loans the banks could afford to make were too small to pay off the farm debts. In North Carolina, he said, the total of loans approved but unpaid ran to $20,000,000.

Mr. Haden's task, undertaken at the request of Governor Talmadge and the farm credit administration, consists of organizing the system of arbitration boards for farm debt composition in each county. The plan is to appoint a five-man board in each county, serving virtually without compensation, to pass on the ability of the debt-burdened farmer to pay, and to recommend a basis of settlement to his creditors.

Mr. Haden and his committee, all members of which serve without pay, select outstanding citizens in each county and recommend them to the governor, who makes the appointments. About 15 county committees have been organized so far, he said, and others are being set up at the rate of five or 10 daily.

When the county committee has been organized, the debt-burdened farmer makes his application for composition to it.

Adjustment Program.
He finds out how much he can borrow from the federal land banks, lists his other assets and presents that to the committee along with a schedule of what he owes. The committee hears from both sides, inviting the creditors to present their case as well.

"Perhaps the committee will determine from its hearing that the farmer owes $5,000 but can pay only $3,000," Haden said.

"The committee will recommend that the creditors accept their 60 cents on the dollar and discharge the debt."

"If they do not accept, eventually they will have to foreclose and the chances are good that they will get less."

"In addition to that if the debts are composed the businessman will have left a potential customer on his own productive farm, instead of a ruined farmer and a piece of worthless land."

"These committees will have no power of compulsion. If the creditors do not want to accept settlement there is nothing to be done. But experience has proved that the recommendation of a committee of outstanding citizens generally results in agreement."

ARBITRATORS NAMED ON PROTESTED TAXES

Nance and Taylor Appointed To Hear Dissatisfied Realty Owners.

A. Steve Nance, president of the Federation of Trades, and J. H. Taylor, Atlanta real estate dealer, were appointed Monday to arbitrate a concerted protest on the part of about 30 real estate owners on 1934 tax assessments for Fulton county.

The arbitrators were named at a conference of George F. Longino, chairman of the board of county commissioners; Tax Assessor Guy A. Moore, Tax Collector W. S. Richardson and C. E. Nash, representing the dissatisfied property owners.

The two men will name a third arbitrator and their decision will be final under the law, Mr. Longino said. The action taken Monday clears up an incident which mystified county officials several weeks ago, when Nash, who says he is a professional tax adjuster, made returns on a large number of pieces of property at assessments ranging from 25 to 35 per cent below the figure fixed by the city tax assessors and it was thought for a time that a hoax was being perpetrated.

The parcels listed include a number of large apartment buildings and other valuable holdings.

Woman He Denies Wedding Sues Clergyman for Divorce

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 26.—(AP)—Intimate details of her association with the Rev. William S. Welburn Jr., young minister, were related by Mrs. Winifred Long Welburn, former Sunday school teacher, today as she sought a divorce from him on grounds of mental cruelty.

She identified the preacher as the man she married last July and then told of their meetings before the marriage, most of them in the parsonage of the church where Welburn was pastor.

"I became suspicious," she said. "I told him about it and he said he guessed we'd have to go to Mexico and get married. I told him 'Oh, no, you won't have to do that for me.'"

Mrs. Welburn testified that, after a conference with her mother and sister, it was agreed at marriage ceremony would be performed at Boerne. They were married, she said, at Boerne last July 25.

"The last time he saw me was about October 13, 1933, one month before the birth of the baby," she testified. The plaintiff based her charge of mental cruelty on the ground that the

FARLEY TO CONTINUE AS LEADER OF PARTY

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau's order barring persons from holding both treasury and political jobs apparently isn't worrying Chairman Farley of the democratic national committee.

"I'll work out of whatever jam I am in if I'm in one," he told reporters at a press conference today. "Time enables us to do a lot of things."

Farley is postmaster general as well as head of the democratic committee. He plans to resign the latter post, but indications are he will not do so until after the November elections.

ROTARIANS LAUD NRA TRADE GAINS

Leaders at Detroit Say Act Was Needed To Break Depression

DETROIT, June 26.—(AP)—Rotary International held a clinic on general business today, found the patient much improved and gave much of the credit to old Doctor NRA.

There was criticism of some details of code administration and doubt was expressed whether NRA codes should be made a permanent part of American business life.

In the key vocational gatherings, however, there was all but unanimous agreement that drastic action was necessary to break the depression, and that the national recovery act had proved a proper and effective method for reviving business.

Typical of the criticisms was one expressed in the meeting of manufacturers, that in closely organized industries codes made possible an unfair increase in prices.

In the distributing section, belief was expressed by several speakers that damage to some lines of business sometimes attributed to codes, was traceable to "those who have not lived up to the codes."

In the automotive division, Ernest Roland, of DeLand, Fla., said the retailers' auto code "was working fine" and predicted a general improvement in the automotive sales field during the next few months.

Sidney S. Plaine, cotton manufacturer of Greenville, N. C., expressed the belief that "the code has taught us to play ball together" and that the future may see world co-operation to remove the international trade conflicts caused by tariffs and variance in wage standards.

Business improvement was reported in the newspaper publishers' section, where Alfred Skewes, of Meridian, Miss., presided, and the belief expressed that the depression had helped to eliminate many unfair practices.

POLICE WAR ORDERED ON GAMBLING DEVICES

Chief Issues Special Order To Prosecute 'Slot-Machine' Operators.

Atlanta patrolmen and detectives were ordered to war against slot-machine gambling devices in a special order by Chief T. O. Sturdivant which was read to the morning watch at midnight Tuesday.

Concurring with the wishes of Councilman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the police committee, and with the request of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, Sturdivant ordered his men to make cases against the owners and the proprietors of all places wherein slot-machines of a gambling nature were found.

The chief directed the men to thoroughly investigate their beats to discover the devices and to report all cases.

The special order outlined gambling devices as machines which paid off in money, merchandise, or checks. The chief said if evidence is found that slot machines which are to be seen all over the city were found to be gambling devices, that cases must be made.

Evangelical Church Merger Completed

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 26.—(AP)—A simple handshake of two men tonight signalled the birth of a new denomination with more than 700,000 communicants—the Reformed and Evangelical church.

More than 800 delegates to national meetings of the Evangelical synod of North America and the Reformed church of the United States crowded into Zion's Evangelical church to participate in the merger ceremony.

All day, the churchmen had participated in final meetings of the separate organizations. To each session came official notification from the other of the union, voted a year ago.

SHERIFF HOLDING BARROW DEATH CAR CITED BY COURT

SHREVEPORT, La., June 26.—(AP)—Sheriff Henderson Jordan, of Bienville parish, one of the officers who ambushed and shot Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, southwest desperadoes to death near Arcadia a month ago, was cited to appear in federal district court before Judge Ben C. Dawkins at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and show cause why he should not be held in contempt of a court order.

The citation resulted from failure of Sheriff Jordan to relinquish to United States Marshal John W. Montgomery the automobile in which Barrow and Parker were slain, on a writ issued in court yesterday afternoon on petition of Jesse Warren, of Topeka, Kan., who claims to be the owner of the car.

Following the slaying of Barrow and Parker, Sheriff Jordan took possession of the car.

Because of the publicity given Barrow and Parker and their wide notoriety as outlaws and killers, the automobile, riddled with bullets at the time the pair was slain, has taken on an added value, and several offers have been made for its exhibition, including one from the Chicago world's fair.

Child Born to Mother Facing Murder Charge

MARKED TREE, Ark., June 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Green, 40-year-old farm woman, facing a charge of slaying the husband by whom she already had ten children, today was the mother of an eleventh child, a tiny daughter.

The child was born some time last night at an humble farm home eight miles southwest of here in a section known as "No-Man's Land." The mother was not attended by a physician, but both she and the child apparently were doing well today.

The husband, described by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Fred H. Stafford, as "a L.ther Green, 52-year-old homesteader, was shot to death at the home late Friday night. Stafford r' named the wife pending a grand jury investigation in October after, he said, she told him she shot the husband after he threatened her and tried to drive her from the home.

Green had three children by a previous marriage.

Weeping Bride Denies Aiding Her Killer-Husband in Crimes

DEDDHAM, Mass., June 26.—(AP)—The state moved on through Norma Milten's tears today in an attempt to show that as a killer's mate she was also his confidante and that she shared the spoils of his raids.

Three times during the day, the slender girl lost control of her emotions, wept and had to be assisted from the stand. She cried as the dress in which she was married to Merton Milten was displayed.

She was under cross-examination the entire day. District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing wound up by producing three suitcases and two cardboard cartons loaded with clothes taken from her Boston apartment when she left for Washington with her husband. He intimated they were costly and that they had been purchased with stolen money.

But just before court closed, the clothes were displayed again. This time by George Douglas, attorney for the defense, who drew from the witness statements that much of the clothing had been purchased by her mother and father before she married Merton and that much was bought at small cost.

Attempts of the prosecution to elicit admissions from Norma that she knew of crimes her husband, his brother, Irving, and Abraham Faber perpetrated in Fitchburg and Lynn failed although she did admit she had told a detective she lost a ring in a Lynn theater in which a man was slain and that she might have lost it there the night before the crime. She denied she had ever acted as a "look-out" for the trio.

Norma is charged with being an accessory after the fact of robbery and murder in connection with the robbery of the Needham Trust Company in which two policemen were slain. Her husband and his two confederates recently were convicted of murder in the first-degree in connection with the slaying of one of the policemen, and they now await sentence to death.

Baptist Head Backs Movie Reform Move

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 26.—(AP)—Dr. M. E. Dodd, president of the Southern Baptist convention, took cognizance of the movie reform movement today in a message to 12,000 Baptist ministers, urging them to "strike while the iron is hot."

In his message, "Morals and Movies," released at convention headquarters here, Dr. Dodd, of Shreveport, La., said that "Pious resolutions are not enough," and asked that the ministers pledge "our people" to participation in the movement.

"Let us act," he said, adding that "the box office is their vital spot." Of the reform movement, Dr. Dodd said that "This perpetual problem is more prominent just now than usual."

Commons Votes Power To Seize German Cash

LONDON, June 26.—(UP)—Parliament tonight authorized seizure of German cash to protect British interests during the six-month moratorium which the reich has proclaimed on foreign debts, beginning Sunday. The move came in the house of commons with passage of the clearing house bill. It was approved without division.

The bill has yet to be approved by the house of peers, but that was considered a formality and passage in commons tonight was considered final. It was hoped, however, that it will not be necessary to use the powers. A German delegation, arriving tonight, is to seek a compromise which will avert this move and halt a threatened disastrous trade war which neither can well afford.

ROADS TO INCREASE CHARGES ON COTTON

Traffic Officials Plan General 15 Per Cent Freight Addition.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 26.—(AP)—A decision to proceed with their plan for a general 15 per cent increase in cotton freight rates from interior points to ports and the mills of New England and North Carolina and South Carolina was reached by traffic officials of southern and southeastern railroads here late today.

The railroad representatives, however, announced two concessions to shippers of the Memphis area. They are:

1. A requested maximum increase of four cents the 100 pounds, both to New Orleans and to mill points. The original proposal was to increase the rate from Memphis to mill points five cents.

2. Decision not to increase the minimum rate carloading from 65,000 to 75,000 pounds as was originally proposed.

The railroads decided to go ahead with a proposal to change the barge-rail differential.

Protests against the proposed increases were made by shippers and mill operators here yesterday at a joint conference of the Southwestern Freight Bureau and the Southern Freight Association.

The railroads will file tariffs of the proposed new rates with the interstate commerce commission for approval. Present rates expire July 31. G. S. Rains, of Atlanta, chairman of the Memphis conference, said tonight the rail officials would meet again tomorrow to consider other possible exceptions to the general 15 per cent increase.

Vanderbilt Doctors Find Mumps Cause

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 26.—(AP)—Hope for eventual control of mumps, long a medical mystery and a scourge of childhood, is held by two experimenters at Vanderbilt University as a result of their recent discovery of a virus which they think causes the disease.

After experimenting more than a year with monkeys, the men—Dr. Claud D. Johnson and Dr. Ernest W.

Goodpasture—have reported that this virus "does not correspond to any known virus with which we are familiar."

"It is judged," their report continues, "that this virus is the causative agent of mumps." Dr. Johnson said today that more recent unreported experiments "have proved conclusively" that the virus causes the disease.

DOLLFUSS TO VISIT
MUSSOLINI IN JULY

ROME, June 26.—(AP)—Premier Dollfuss, of Austria, will make a "family" visit to Premier Mussolini, of Italy, at the end of July.

They will go to Riccione on the Adriatic where Mussolini and his family will spend a vacation. If Duce has invited Frau Dollfuss and the chancellor's two children to accompany the Austrian leader to the meeting there.

Chancellor Dollfuss will remain only two or three days but his family will stay at Riccione longer.

Soap-Box Race on August 4
Brings Out Many Inquiries

Many inquiries have been received by The Constitution about the first All-American soap box race, which will be run under the sponsorship of The Constitution on August 4, indicating a great interest in the event.

Boys from 6 to 18 years of age will be eligible as racers, and prizes will be awarded in three classes as follows: Class A, 6 to 11 years; Class B, 12 to 15 years; and Class C, 16 to 18 years. Cash and merchandise prizes will be offered.

The first prize winner will be eligible to compete in the championship soap-box derby in Dayton, Ohio, on August 18-19.

The boys will either make their own cars, or will have expert mechanics help them. Prizes will be awarded accordingly.

There will be no motive power in the cars. A steep grade will supply the momentum. The speed depends on the ingenuity of the car builders. A streamline design would get more speed than the ordinary kind, for instance.

The place where the race will be held has not yet been selected, but will be announced shortly. Meanwhile boys who wish to enter should apply to Chevrolet dealers for complete details.

Chicago Milk Firms
Enjoin AAA Officials

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP)—An injunction restraining the secretary of agriculture and other government officials from enforcing the various provisions of the AAA milk licensing agreement against three Chicago milk distributors was issued today by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Judge Barnes denied a counter motion by the government seeking to enjoin the dairies from continuing in business in violation of the milk licensing agreement.

In effect, Judge Barnes' ruling was that milk production and distribution in this district did not constitute "interstate commerce."

The injunction was asked on behalf of the Edgewater Dairy Company, the Joliet Dairy Company and Anton Michalek and Joseph Wagner Jr., milk distributors.

Exact reports were not available, but repayments were placed at $45,000,000. Of this more than $25,000,000 has been repaid directly to the corporation and the remainder to banks and private lending agencies which advanced money on cotton.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Officials of the farm administration estimated today that borrowers of commodity corporation funds on stored cotton had repaid to date one-third of the total received.

Exact reports were not available, but repayments were placed at $45,000,000. Of this more than $25,000,000 has been repaid directly to the corporation and the remainder to banks and private lending agencies which advanced money on cotton.

Habeas Corpus Writ
Is Granted to Factor

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP)—Judge Evan A. Evans, of the United States circuit court of appeals, today ordered the release of John Factor, wealthy speculator, from the Sycamore, Ill., jail, where he has been held pending the issuance of a final order for his extradition to England on charges of defrauding investors of $7,000,000.

The judge delayed signing the order, however, until tomorrow, to permit counsel for the British crown to get in touch with the state department at Washington.

Judge Evans acted on the writ of habeas corpus after receiving a petition presented by Factor's wife asking the release of her husband under Section 654 of the extradition act, which provides that a prisoner shall be released if the secretary of state has failed to issue the final order within 60 days after the court order.

Man Critically Hurt
When Hit by Train

Struck by northbound train No. 36 as he walked on the railroad tracks in East Point shortly before midnight Tuesday, a man who gave the name of Andrew Roukes, about 25, of near East Point, was in a critical condition at the Piedmont hospital early Wednesday morning.

Roukes was taken to the hospital in a Hempter ambulance and physician said he had serious cuts about the head, a broken leg and a fractured ankle. The man evidently failed to hear the train as it blew, it was said. The engineer who had brought the train in from New Orleans stopped after the accident.

$8,500,000 TO AID
NATION'S WILD LIFE

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today allotted $8,500,000 to begin work on the wild life restoration program.

In a letter to Thomas H. Beck, chairman of President Roosevelt's special committee on wild life, Wallace said the "general character and direction of the program proposed by the committee" had been accepted.

The group submitted a report to the president February 8 calling for a comprehensive restoration of wild game and birds on land to be retired from farm production under the farm administration program.

The secretary discharged the committee, saying its work was "a very important achievement" and expressing his "heartiest appreciation."

The committee had asked for $25,000,000 for purchasing land and $25,000,000 for restoration work on the land.

The committee report outlined approximately 400 projects in 48 states, covering 5,000,000 acres, which were submitted for immediate consideration.

Officials said approximately $6,000,000 of the $8,500,000 would be used for land purchase and the remainder for restoration work on the areas bought.

Additional funds probably will be made available for the restoration program as the program progresses.

St. Luke's Church Forms Setting For Gray-Ronald Wedding Rites

St. Luke's Episcopal church formed the setting for the nuptial service of Miss Agnes Kendrick Gray, only daughter of Mr. William W. Gray and the late Colonel Gray, United States Army, and William Francis Ronald, of Daytona Beach, Fla., which was solemnized with dignity and beauty at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Carey B. Wilmer, of Tampa, Fla., recited the opening prayer. She carried a bouquet of orange blossoms and a long friend of the bride's family, read the marriage service which was witnessed by an assembled throng of relatives and friends.

An elaborate massing of palms and ferns, among which burned myriads of tall, white, waxen tapers, formed the decorations of the church. Stately regal ladies filled the brass altar vases. Hugh Hodgson furnished a program of nuptial music while the guests were assembling.

Bridal Personnel.
Acting as ushers were Victor Smith, Joseph Lee Edwards, John Wheatley and Wynne Burrows. The bridesmaids included a trio of young cousins of the bride, Miss Doris Smith, of Providence, R. I., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hammond Smith, and Miss Joan Smith, and Miss Carroll Smith, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander W. Smith Jr. Another cousin, Miss Emily Smith, served as the bride's maid of honor.

Miss Doris Smith wore pale pink organdy, trimmed with double ruffles of the material, and she wore a small bandeau of pink ribbon in her hair. Misses Joan and Carroll Smith wore gowns of white, with accessories to match, and Mrs. Theodore Hammond Smith wore pale blue tulle, with accessories to match.

Mr. Ronald and his bride left for a motor trip and later in the summer they will return to Daytona Beach, where they will occupy their home on Riverway boulevard.

The bride traveled in an ensemble of pearly-blue crepe, the jacket trimmed with bands of platinum fox fur. She wore a blue hat to match.

Among those from other cities coming to attend the wedding were Mrs. Howard York Stillman, sister of the bridegroom, of Daytona Beach, Fla.; Miss Emily Smith, of Rhode Island; Miss Alice Heath Montgomery, of Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Maida Lamb and Mrs. Natalie Lamb, of Daytona Beach, Fla.; Dr. Carey B. Wilmer, of Tampa, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hammond Smith, of Providence, R. I.; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, of Endless Caverns, Va.

Lace Wedding Gown.
Filmy white lace, posed over white tulle, fashioned the bride's becoming costume. The gown featured a short jacket, the sleeves being made full to the elbow and tight from this point to the wrist, where they ended in a point over the hand. The skirt was fitted at the hip and ended in graduated fullness to the floor, forming a graceful train in the back. Her hat was a transparent wide-brimmed model, trimmed with a single cluster of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. William Winbourne Gray, mother of the bride, entertained the families, the bride party and out-of-town guests at an informal reception at her residence on Peachtree circle. Garden flowers in pastel tints formed the decorations throughout the home.

Mrs. Gray received her guests wearing blue and white flowered chiffon, a white hat and a shoulder cluster of gardenias. Mrs. Howard York Stillman, of Daytona Beach, sister of the bridegroom, was gowned in beige lace and net, and her hat was a picture model of black lace. She wore a spray of orchids.

Mrs. Alex W. Smith Sr. wore blue chiffon, trimmed with a yoke of cream lace and worn with a white hat. Mrs. Alex Smith Jr. was gowned in white, with accessories to match, and Mrs. Theodore Hammond Smith wore pale blue tulle, with accessories to match.

Mr. Ronald and his bride left for a motor trip and later in the summer they will return to Daytona Beach, where they will occupy their home on Riverway boulevard.

Rabern-Crowe.
Of cordial interest to many friends was the wedding taking place at twilight on Saturday afternoon, of Miss Jean Rabern to Thomas Daniel Crowe at St. Paul Methodist church. Rev. Henry H. James, pastor of the church, performed the impressive ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends of the bride and groom.

Miss Charlotte Hill rendered a program of appropriate music and Hugh Timms sang "All for You" and Mrs. Arthur Stinson, sister of the groom, sang "At Dawning." To the strains of Mendelssohn's march the lovely bride entered with her father, W. H. Rabern, by whom she was given in marriage and was joined at the altar by the groom and his best man, Arthur Stinson.

Her beauty was enhanced by the becomingly styled, navy blue, tripe sheer gown. Her large picture hat of navy felt was most attractive against her golden blonde hair. She wore white accessories—her corsage yellow sweethearts roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Arthur Stinson, her only attendant, wore a gown of pale pink orange, with a blue picture hat. Her corsage was bright red roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Crowe is the youngest daughter of W. H. Rabern and the late Mrs. Minnie Crowe. She graduated from Commercial High school and is very popular among the younger set. Her sweet, charming manner has endeared her to a host of friends. She is the sister of Mrs. Earl Robertson and Mrs. Carl V. Serugson Jr.

Mr. Crowe is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crowe and is connected with the Eaton Products Company, Atlanta.

Mrs. Robert Crowe, mother of the groom, wore a gown of cream lace with broad accessories. Her corsage was talisman roses. Mrs. Earl Robertson and Mrs. Carl Serugson, sisters of the bride, were gowned alike in models of white pearl crepe. Mrs. W. H. Rabern wore a pink crepe gown with white accessories.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Holby, of Albany, Ga.; Mrs. Frank Layton and Miss Minerva Layton, of Cartersville, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Crowe left immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip to Asheville. On their return they will be at home to their friends in Decatur.

IT'S UP TO THE WOMEN

By Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt

Following is one of a series of 60 articles in which the First Lady of the Land tells what she thinks about a variety of subjects close to the heart of all modern women. Every word has been written by Mrs. Roosevelt herself.

XXXIII—Should Wives Be Interesting?

A woman, just like a man, may have a great gift for something particular. That does not mean that she must give up the joy of maturing and having a home and children. It simply means, when we set them in opposition to each other, that we have not yet grown accustomed to the fact that women's lives must be adjusted and arranged for in just the same way that men's lives are. Women may have to sacrifice certain things at times—so do men.

When the keeping of a home took all the strength and time that a woman had, the home was the factory where much that we now buy ready-made had to be manufactured. Few of us realize that only a little over a hundred years ago all the candles and soap and food used by the household in winter as well as in summer were prepared by the women of the house; all the linen and all the wool were made at home; all the washing was done at home.

I have a piece of linen made in Dutchess county from flax that was grown in the country and now the art is completely lost. The necessity has gone today and therefore there are few women who have been in this country more than a few years and whose husbands earn more than the bare necessities of life, who are not able to do something besides keeping their home. They may choose to play bridge or golf, or they may choose to do some part-time work or even full-time work in some job that interests them. If so—the only people to be concerned about it are the members of the family.

To be sure, sometimes children resent the fact that their mother has a job and is not at their beck and call at any hour of the day or night. This is only so, of course, when her work is not needed for the necessities of life. But granted that the father provides the necessities, sometimes the children are jealous of the fact that a mother should want any interests outside of theirs.

They are justified if something really vital goes out of their lives, but if their physical needs are cared for and if their mother, on her return, has enough vitality to keep in touch with their daily lives and know what has happened to them and to give them her sympathetic interest and advice, then it is probably better for the future lives of these children that they should have to exercise a little unselfishness, a little thought for themselves and for others because their mother is not always at hand.

They have a right to expect that if they have a problem she will listen to it, but they have no right to expect that she will give up the thing which she loves and which is constructive and creative work, because they would like to have her home at 5 o'clock instead of at 6 o'clock. It might be fair to ask her to give up pure recreation but not a thing which really makes her an individual.

Do not make the mistake of thinking when you are married you need make no further effort about your family relations. The very best thing that comes to a woman with a job is the fact that she has to use her brains in order to find time for both her job and her home duties. This keeps her brain from stagnating. She has something new to talk to her husband about and he never has the feeling that she is just like the old chair which he has always sat in—comfortable, but thoroughly familiar and very very interesting in consequence.

The job of being a home-keeper, a wife and a mother plus some other job or some other work is quite a heavy burden for any woman has the health and vitality and the desire to do both. It seems to me that it ought to be a happier relationship at home instead of a discontented one.

Stitt-Mixson Rites Set for Saturday

Saturday, June 30, has been chosen by Miss Elizabeth Stitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Stitt and Dr. Joyce Ferdinand Mixson Jr., of Valdosta, as the date for their marriage which will be quietly solemnized at 5 o'clock in the Emory theological chapel with Bishop Warren A. Candler officiating.

Miss Virginia Stitt will act as her sister's maid of honor and Dr. Mixson will have his brother, Harry Mixson, of Columbia, S. C., as best man. The ushers will include Dr. John Venable and R. B. Anderson, of Bristol, Tenn. Mrs. Evans will furnish the music and Robert Blackwell will sing.

After a wedding trip Dr. Mixson and his bride will reside in Valdosta, where Dr. Mixson is practicing medicine. Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Randall will entertain at supper at their home on Pace's Ferry road following the wedding rehearsal. Guests will include only members of the immediate families.

Miss Young Weds Winston W. Webber.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—The marriage of Miss Virginia Young to Winston W. Webber was solemnized with beauty and dignity at 6 o'clock Friday, June 8, in the Lincoln chapel of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church here. The Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo read the marriage service in the presence of a group of relatives and close friends.

The bride, who is the lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Young, of Washington, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a beautiful gown of French blue crepe, with a pink picture hat, and her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies.

Mr. Webber is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Webber, of Atlanta, Ga. He is a graduate of Tech High school and attended Georgia Tech for two years. He received his bachelor of Arts degree in 1932 from the school of foreign languages of Washington University, and is at present connected with the United States treasury department in Washington, where the young couple will reside.

Miss Aubry To Speak At Institut Francais.

"La Provenance et l'Influence" is the subject of a talk to be given by Miss Aubry at the French program of the Institut Francais of Emory University to be held Thursday afternoon, June 28, at 4 o'clock, in 103 Theology building at Emory. During her girlhood in southern France, Miss Aubry met the famous poet, Mistral, and her talk will be one of the most interesting in the series being given on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at Emory as part of the activity of the Institut Francais. The public is invited to these meetings.

The program for Thursday will also include the presentation of a one-act play, "La Surprise d'Idaïre," by the following students of the institute, under the direction of Assistant Professor W. A. Strozio: Miss Sarah Jones, Miss Elizabeth Potter, Miss Julia Watson, James Means and Warren Newman. A musical program will be presented featuring Willard Lewis, tenor of the Emory Glee Club, and a quartet composed of Mr. Lewis, Miss Alton Green, Miss Sarah Jones and Douglas Rump, baritone. Mr. Lewis, instructor in the Institut Francais, will preside.

Drama Group To Give 'Alice in Wonderland.'

A talented group who are studying drama under the supervision of Dr. James E. Routh at Oglethorpe University will present "Alice in Wonderland" this morning at 12 o'clock in the auditorium at Oglethorpe University. The course offered as a part of the summer school work is proving exceedingly popular with members of the social contingent and a number of Atlantans have enrolled for the work. Miss Claudia Shaw is assisting Dr. Routh in the drama course.

Miss Dorothy Sweeney will enact the role of "Alice." Mrs. Gaston Gay will impersonate the "White Rabbit" and Mrs. Charles Hicks will represent the "Mad Hatter." "The March Hare" will be enacted by Mrs. Green Dodd Warren. Mrs. Murdoch Egan will be the "Mock Turtle" and Miss Edith Hills will portray the part of the "Dormouse." Mrs. T. T. Vance will impersonate the "Duchess" and Rufus Pitts Jr. will be cast as the "Gryphon."

Mrs. Dorsey Gives Children's Party.

Complimenting 72 children from the Osmond Sanders Day Nursery, Mrs. Cam Dorsey entertained on Friday afternoon at a party at her home on Habersham road. Assisting in entertaining the small guests were Messrs. Philip Alston, Marion Harper, Frank Berry, Noris E. Northern, Victor Smith, Edgar Neely and Hugh Wood. Games were played on the spacious lawn surrounding Mrs. Dorsey's home, and prizes were awarded for archery and other interesting contests. There were ponies for the children to ride and a candy-popping added interest.

Miss Roberts Weds Raymond Whitehead In Dalton, Ga.

DALTON, Ga., June 26.—Centering the interest of a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Tolva Roberts and Raymond Whitehead, of Atlanta, which was solemnized on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Dug Gap Baptist church, in Whitfield county, in the presence of a large assembly of friends and relatives. The Rev. W. E. Roberts officiated, the impressive ring service being used. Stately ferns interspersed with Royal lilies and white chrysanthemums formed a background for tall baskets filled with white snapdragons and maidenhair fern. The altar vases were filled with quantities of white dahlias and maidenhair fern.

Miss Sara Gene Roberts rendered a program of appropriate music preceding and during the ceremony. Ushers were James Quinn, Thomas King, B. L. Davis and Carter Jones. James Whitehead, of Atlanta, twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Isma Hewitt, Mrs. Deaphney Smith, sister of the bride; Miss Cornelia Spann, and Miss George Lewellyn. Mrs. Cherrie Duncan, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the junior attendants were Roberta Smith and Earl Martin Smith. Lorenzo Dow Roberts, paternal grandfather of the bride, gave her away.

Mrs. Duncan, the matron of honor for her sister, was lovely in a gown of jonquil yellow over a slip of taffeta in matching hue. She wore a corsage of white and translucent blue, and carried a bouquet of mixed summer flowers tied with double faced ribbons.

The bridesmaids wore dresses duplicating the matron of honor. Their gowns were of pastel shades and each carried an arm bouquet of pastel-shaded summer flowers tied with characteristic green ribbons.

The lovely bride entered with her grandfather, Lorenzo Dow Roberts, by whom she was given in marriage. She was joined by the Rev. W. E. Roberts and her bridegroom, James Whitehead, the bridegroom's twin brother, of Atlanta. Her girlish beauty and slim figure were enhanced by a gown of heavy white taffeta, made on long, straight lines. The high neckline was completed with shoulder cape and very narrow plaited ruffle, trimmed with narrow white satin ribbons.

After a wedding trip Dr. Mixson and his bride will reside in Valdosta, where Dr. Mixson is practicing medicine. Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Randall will entertain at supper at their home on Pace's Ferry road following the wedding rehearsal. Guests will include only members of the immediate families.

Mrs. S. M. Roberts, mother of the bride, wore navy and white with navy accessories. Her bouquet was of pink roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Baxter Whitehead, of Atlanta, mother of the bridegroom, wore a model of brown crepe with accessories to match. Her shoulder spray was of sweet peas and valley lilies.

The young couple left by motor for a wedding trip after which they will be at home in Atlanta. For traveling the bride wore a smart two-piece model of navy blue crepe trimmed in white with matching accessories.

Mrs. Jackson Feted At Party Series.

A feted visitor is Mrs. William L. Jackson, of New York, formerly of Augusta, who is visiting her brother, Mrs. Lewis Butt, at her home on Montgomery Ferry drive. Mrs. Jackson was central figure at the luncheon given on Tuesday at the Capital City Club when she was feted by the hosts of the club on Tuesday, honoring Mrs. Jackson, the guest list including a group of close friends of the attractive hostess.

An Angel-Skin Finishing Cream and Some Fine Summer Soaps

By MIGNON.

1. While I am on the subject of makeup foundation creams—and I'm sticking pretty close to that subject now that summer is here—there is one you should know about, especially if you have an oily skin, that is very difficult to manage in steamy weather. With no effort, because the cream is extremely light and fluffy and still holds together, you spread a bit over your face. You don't even have to exert yourself to rub it on, because it not only spreads quickly and easily, it dries immediately. You have left a not-at-all-oily, and not-too-dry surface upon which to put your war paint. A bit of rouge sticks perfectly. The powder holds well, and you have what is almost exactly like "angel's skin."

keep his hat on. It was a wide brimmed one which kept him from burning too deeply around the back of his neck and the shoulders. The girls were protected equally well. And as a result the youngsters were tanned but not cruelly sun-burned.

Nancy had given Joan, Peter, Susan, her husband and herself cod liver oil all winter. She believed that her general freedom from colds and other infectious diseases was due to the resistance she had built up. The family were not catching cold because they were well enough to throw off the infections. But since cod liver oil is a winter substitute for sunshine and since sunshine was now available Nancy discontinued the use of the oil and put the family into sun suits and sent them out of doors.

She continued the serving of orange juice and milk was just as much a part of the family diet in the summer as it had been in the winter. She found it easy to get plenty of fresh, green vegetables. At least one of these was served and eaten raw every day.

There were not so many changes as one might expect.

At first Nancy along with the rest of the world believed that it would be impossible to have the children get too much sunshine. But she had learned better. Peter who had grown rather long shanked during the winter was allowed only five minutes exposure to the sun with nothing but shorts and no hat to protect his skin. For the rest of the morning he wore a sun suit with a wide meshed net back. He had to

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

Steve's skit was a success. It dealt humorously and satirically with youth that flumed east of Fifth Avenue—made that youth a good deal more likeable than those who knew it by report only had thought it could be. The critics were kind. One critic of repute went to the length of saying the young unknown out of the west had done a neat job—the theater might look forward to something more pretentious from this source.

Sandra's performance surprised her director. Steve was out there, some place in the dim maw, with Val. She owed it to Steve to make that vast audience like his skit. It must be accomplished by making them like her. No steel in her now. Her eyes were glad and bright, begging the vast sea of white spotlights to like her. The audience responded. It caught the humor of her lines, was attracted by the magnet of her personality. A laugh in the rear of the theater. It rippled out from the center, slowly, gathered speed and swept, riotously, to the edge of the orchestra pit. The effect on Sandra was of a highbred horse sniffing the tannhark. She was not playing a part. She was living those few minutes as she would have lived them in the old life. Her final exit. Applause followed her, seeped in under the curtain. The director was waiting for her—beyond the director Val and Steve. The pit of her stomach went hollow. The director held out both his hands: "Good girl, Reynal. You put it over. Where's that fuff that played the part of Connie? Of all the lams. She got her lines balled up twice. Walks as if she's got rods in her knees. I've tried six girls in that part, including a coon-shooter from Chicago. You'd think it was a Barmyore part or something. Now I've got to dig up another prospect. Connie gets two weeks' pay and a one-way ride."

"If you're making a change," Sandra ventured, "may I suggest a girl in the show—Fredericka Fordyce. She's the Queen of Diamonds in the jewel scene. I spoke to Mr. Hart about her some time ago. I know the Queen can do it."

"That wise-cracking blonde with the yellow hair?" The director shook his head. "Cold. I'll bet she's never been farther east of Broadway than Sixth avenue. When that dame went to her first night club, she hadn't noticed her teeth ringing."

"You see only her tinsel side—wise-cracking, as you call it. I do know her and I know the girl who inspired the part. They're the same person—in different locations. The Queen's not so gauche as you think. She's a born imitator. She'll get the tempo instantly. I'm sure I could help her."

"We've got to do something and do it quick." The director hesitated. "Suppose you run her through the stage entrance. She must tell Milt what she thought of his stupid mama-boy complex. She pushed him along until he was free of the crowd."

"The Queen wants a home," Sandra said bluntly. "She loves you, Milt. She is sick of night clubs and paste diamond crowns. Why don't you take her out of it before somebody else does. She's worth it. This is the first performance she's missed since I know her."

"Milt, what is it? You must have an idea."

"She's been actin' queer. There's some guy been makin' a play for her."

Sandra remembered the Queen's remark in 12th street: "If I set foot on the stage again, I'll change my diet." The Queen was fed up on dalliance.

"She's unhappy," Sandra said. "Oste what?" Milton gestured with the eloquence of his race. "I gave her everything. If there's something she wants, why don't she ask for it?"

The stage entrance was crowded to suffocation. She must tell Milt what she thought of his stupid mama-boy complex. She pushed him along until he was free of the crowd.

"The Queen wants a home," Sandra said bluntly. "She loves you, Milt. She is sick of night clubs and paste diamond crowns. Why don't you take her out of it before somebody else does. She's worth it. This is the first performance she's missed since I know her."

"Milt, what is it? You must have an idea."

"She's been actin' queer. There's some guy been makin' a play for her."

Sandra remembered the Queen's remark in 12th street: "If I set foot on the stage again, I'll change my diet." The Queen was fed up on dalliance.

"She's unhappy," Sandra said. "Oste what?" Milton gestured with the eloquence of his race. "I gave her everything. If there's something she wants, why don't she ask for it?"

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

COCKFIGHTING.

Ancient Romans were fond of bloodthirsty "sports," and it is little wonder that cockfighting was popular with them. They fitted "gamecocks" with sharp metal spurs, and set them together. Pictures of cockfights have been found amid the ruins of Pompeii and other old Roman cities.

The cruel sport, I am sorry to say, was carried across the Atlantic, to both North and South America. Men paid money to see the fights. Indianapolis won doubtful fame for gold-plated cockspurs, which were made there. Since that day, laws have been passed to stop cockfighting in Canada and in most parts of the United States. It is still lawful in some (not all) Latin American countries, in Asia and in the East Indies.

STOCKS ADVANCE AS VOLUME GAINS

By BERNARD S. OHARA.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(P)—

Prices on the curb exchange today the day with general firmness. Net changes were confined to narrow fractions in most cases, however, and a number of favorites were virtually motionless.

Trading continued slow, although there was a slight pick-up in volume from Monday's extreme dullness.

Transfers approximated 12,000 shares, compared with 108,000 in the preceding session.

Green Alden Coal was relatively active, moving up 1 3/4 points. While

Pittsburgh Glass advanced 3 points on small volume. American

Gas & Electric and Fisk Rubber gained

1/4 point each and Philip Morris

3-4. Gold shares appreciated fractionally.

The oil group showed a mixed trend, with the Standard Companies of Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio, along with Humble and Gulf, scoring small gains. Imperial Oil, International Petroleum and Creole Petroleum were inactive.

Liquor shares showed little movement. Electric Bond & Share, Technical, Waco Aircraft and Greyhound

Corporation moved a shade higher. National Bellas Hess, and American Supermarket eased.

STOCK OPINIONS.

TECHNICAL.—Regarding the immediate outlook, we believe the trend to be upward and are of the opinion that the greatest danger is that of premature selling rather than that of the failure to take profits.

BEER & BEER.—We do not look for the market to continue on the upgrade until the end of the month, when we expect higher prices in the next day or two.

BEER & BEER.—We continue to advocate buying on the upgrade for quick turns.

BEER & BEER.—We are not at all convinced that the probability of a substantial reaction that might be caused by the announcement of the stock exchange commission remains unbroken.

LIVINGTON & CO.—There is more confusion in the market than there was a month or two ago, and we expect to see higher levels in the near future.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

TENNER & BEANE.—We look for a trading market to continue on the upgrade until the end of the month, when we expect higher prices in the next day or two.
